Use new technological advances that afford us the ability to diagnose disease in its earliest stages, which can reduce patient morbidity and mortality as well as health care spending. Arrangements are then made to update the article metadata in secondary indexation databases such as Scopus, Web of Science and Pubmed, as applicable. Ethics in publishingPlease see our information pages on Ethics in publishing and Ethical guidelines for journal publication.Studies in humans and animalsIf the work involves the use of human subjects, the author should ensure that the work described has been carried out in accordance with The Code of Ethics of the World Medical Association (Declaration of Helsinki) for experiments involving humans. An accepted proposal does not guarantee that the written manuscript will be accepted for publication. For help on uploading files to Mendley, please visit our step-by-step guide here. Please state the survey response rate, which must be at least 60%.Why is the survey question important?Why is the survey a legitimate tool to address the research question?Was IRB approval obtained?How was the sample size determined?How was the survey instrument developed and has it been validated?Clearly define the denominator.What population was sampled (eg, clinic patients, members of an online support group, the general public) and how was this sampling performed (eg, random, purposive, convenience)?How was the survey administered (e.g. in person, postal mail, email, online, social media, etc.)? In general, The JAAD requires "CC BY-NC, ND" license except where otherwise mandated by a government funding body: Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivs (CC BY-NC-ND): for non-commercial purposes, lets others distribute and copy the article, and to include in a collective work (such as an anthology), as long as they credit the author(s) and provided they do not alter or modify the article.Subscription and open access (OA)The Journal offers authors a choice in publishing their research. Subscription and Open Access:SubscriptionArticles are made available to subscribers as well as developing countries and patient groups through our access programsOpen AccessArticles are immediately and freely available for reading and download to both subscribers and the wider public with permitted reuseAn open access publication fee is payable by authors or their research funderYour publication choice will have no effect on the peer review process or acceptance of submitted articles.The open access publication fee for this journal is $3,700, excluding taxes. If one or more outcomes described in the study protocol are not reported, this deviation should be explicitly noted and explained in the manuscript.A "core outcome set" is a minimum set of outcomes that have been recommended by an international consensus group for clinical trials of a particular disease or condition. The largest P value smaller than its corresponding critical value was identified and all smaller P values (lower ordinal rankings) are considered significant.Abbreviations and acronymsAbbreviations must be limited primarily to those in general usage. For histologic/microscopic figures, the legend must specify stain. These guidelines are meant as a point of reference to help identify appropriate language but are by no means exhaustive or definitive. Any special instructions regarding sizing should be clearly noted.Electronic artworkGeneral pointsUse uniform lettering and sizing.Preferred fonts: Arial (or Helvetica), Times New Roman (or Times), Symbol, Courier.Number the illustrations according to their sequence in the text.Use a logical naming convention for your artwork files.Indicate per figure if it is a single, 1.5 or 2-column fitting image.For Word submissions only, you may still provide figures and their captions, and tables within a single file at the revision stage.Please note that individual figure files larger than 10 MB must be provided in separate source files.Images cannot be republished from wikis (opensource websites that allow collaborative editing of content and structure by its users), such as Wikipedia, as these are not considered original sources. These will be used instead of standard icons and will personalize the link to your video data. The Editor(s), Publisher, and Academy disclaim any responsibility or liability for such material and do not guarantee, warrant, or endorse any products or services advertised in this publication, nor do they guarantee any claim made by the manufacturer of such products or services.Tip for using this guidePress CTRL + F on your keyboard, then enter your search term to easily navigate through the guide. A single table should not exceed 1 typed page in a PDF.See a sample Dermatopathology manuscript here. Clinical ReviewsClinical reviews require a one-page proposal to be submitted to the journal before submission in order to determine interest. However, per ICMJE, authors must disclose all support for the present manuscript (e.g., funding, provision of study materials, technical writing, article processing charges, etc.) without time limit. The MOOSE checklist (Meta-analyses Of Observational Studies in Epidemiology) must be used for meta-analyses of observational studies. Research LettersNew or preliminary research findings, early reports of therapeutic trials in a cohort of patients, and survey research may be considered for publication as Research Letters. This is especially important for randomized controlled trials, so they are appropriately captured in evidence-based reviews. The manuscript should be in line with the Recommendations for the Conduct, Reporting, Editing and Publication of Scholarly Work in Medical Journals and aim for the inclusion of representative human populations (sex, age and ethnicity) as per those recommendations. Kennedy Blvd.Philadelphia, PA 19103For questions about the proof of your accepted paper, contact:MaryKate SullivanJournal ManagerEmail: m.sullivan@elsevier.com Key words: The selection of key words is the most important step in the submission process. The following statement must appear on the title page of the manuscript and will be published with the article: Patient Consent on File: Consent for the publication of recognizable patient photographs or other identifiable material was obtained by the authors and included at the time of article submission to the journal stating that all patients gave consent with the understanding that this information may be publicly available.PermissionsDirect quotations, tables, or illustrations that have appeared in copyrighted material must be accompanied upon submission by written permission for their use from the copyright owner and the original author along with complete information as to their source. The sex of animals must be indicated, and where appropriate, the influence (or association) of sex on the results of the study.Studies involving live human or animal subjects must have been approved by the authors' Institutional Review Board or its equivalent. The use of "ghost writers" or any author employed by an entity with a commercial interest in any product discussed is rarely appropriate for any manuscript and is strictly prohibited for any CME-accredited activity.Copyright transfer and ownership of datain accordance with the Copyright Act of 1976, which became effective January 1, 1978, the following statement signed by each author must accompany the manuscript submitted: "I, the undersigned author, transfer all copyright ownership of the manuscript referenced above to the American Academy of Dermatology, in the event the work is published. Inclusion of textbook-type material is strongly discouraged, as is repetition of the same statements in the Introduction and Discussion. Once a manuscript has been submitted, the order of authorship (including adding or removing authors) cannot be changed without a request signed by all authors and approved by the Editor. Also list textbooks and monographs that were searched to substantiate the claim. Figures that contain a brand name product must have permission from the manufacturer for publication.Figure legends should begin with the name of the condition or disease being depicted. Arrows and arrowheads should be used freely to clarify findings. Surveys administered on online platforms where no denominator is delineated will not be considered.JAAD will only publish survey-based research if a survey approach is particularly well-suited for answering an important clinical question, and if the survey is well-designed and executed. There is a section on the questionnaire for authors to list their conflicts of interest. This is how most clinicians and investigators will find your work, and the key words should be chosen carefully to allow ready retrieval of the study through PubMed and other search engines. Follow the instructions here to find out about available data visualization options and how to include them with your article.Supplementary dataThe Journal no longer publishes supplemental tables or figures in the print or electronic versions of the journal, but you can upload them to Mendley and include the Mendley link in your article allowing readers full access to supplementary material you deem important. Each part of a multi-part figure is counted toward the maximum allotment (e.g., a figure 1A and 1B are considered 2 figures).See a sample Letters, Notes & Comments manuscript here.JAAD no longer publishes case letters or reports. Please indicate that the study has been reviewed or exempted by your IRB on the title page. Note: if your submission includes photos of products (such as dermatoscopes, apps, surgical equipment, etc.), you must obtain and provide permission from the product manufacturer for publication of the photo.See a sample Pearl manuscript here. All manuscript submission requirements, including clear disclosure of authorship contributions, must be satisfied for each paper. A copy of the "CONSORT Checklist for Authors Submitting Reports of Randomized Controlled Trials" may be downloaded from the JAAD Web site. Articles accepted for publication in an Elsevier journal from authors who have indicated that the underlying research reported in their articles was supported by an NIH grant will be sent by Elsevier to PMC for public access posting 12 months after final publication. Suitable questions assess the learner's ability to diagnose or treat a condition appropriately after reading the CME article. Individuals listed in the Acknowledgments because of such contributions to the work should provide written consent. As an alternative, an example of acceptable terminology would be, "Our patients demonstrated positive responses and the treatment was well tolerated."Trade namesTrade names and brand names of drugs and devices may not be used in the title of the paper. Systematic Reviews and Meta-AnalysisSystematic reviews and meta-analysis will be considered for publication when the article sheds novel light on an important topic in clinical practice. This response may be published or sent directly to the commentator at the discretion of the editor. First decisions (accept, revise, reject) are usually made within four weeks, although delays are possible. Each part of a composite image counts towards the maximum allotment (e.g., a figure 1A and 1B are considered 2 figures). If our editors agree that the ethical issue is one that is worthy of analysis, we will identify the most appropriate dermatoeithic to respond on how best to resolve or deal with this submitted concern. (This does not include tasks such as typing or photocopying.) The statement will be published as part of the manuscript referenced above to the American Academy of Dermatology, in the event the work is published. Correct preparation of the manuscript will expedite the review and publication procedures. They will also be required to complete the related authorship questionnaire. (dataset|Oguro, M, Imahori, S, Saito, S, Nakashizuka, T. Response rates must be included in both the abstract and the body of the manuscript. Each part must also have separate and distinct learning objectives. Abstracts of papers submitted in the Original Articles, Dermatopathology, From the Dermatology Foundation, and Dermatologic Surgery sections should be structured as follows:Background: What is the major problem that prompted the study?Objective: What is the purpose of the study?Methods: What type of study was done (case series, case-control, cohort, cross-sectional, randomized controlled trial, ecologic, etc.)? All three parts must be included in each conflict of interest.The Editor asks each reviewer to disclose any competing interests or conflicts of interest that might interfere with one's objectivity (or to recuse oneself from acting as a reviewer). More about the defined role of authors and contributors can be found on the ICMJE website. Multi-part figures must be marked clearly (i.e., 1A, 1B, 1C). Please use this proof only for checking the typesetting, editing, completeness and correctness of the text, tables and figures. Track your accepted paperOnce your paper is accepted for publication, you will receive a reference number and a direct link that lets you follow its publication status via Elsevier?s "Track Your Accepted Article" service.However, even without a notification you can track the status of your article by entering your article reference number and corresponding author surname in Track Your Accepted Article.Read more about how to track your accepted article. A single table should not exceed 1 typed page in a PDF. The type of study that was done (case series, case-control, cohort, cross-sectional, randomized controlled trial, ecologic, etc.) should be noted in the title and in the text. The names, highest academic degree, and affiliations of any persons who contributed to writing the paper or analyzing the data who do not meet authorship criteria must be included in the paper's Acknowledgments along with a disclosure of any pertinent conflicts of interest. The editorial staff will review the manuscript and will ordinarily send it to at least two reviewers. Graphical abstracts should be submitted as a separate file in the online submission system. On request from the author, author names can be directly updated on published papers on Elsevier's primary publishing platforms, without any correction or other note. **Each part of a multi-part figure is counted toward the maximum allotment (e.g., a figure 1A and 1B are considered 2 figures). The DOI consists of a unique alpha-numeric character string which is assigned to a document by the publisher upon the initial electronic publication. Supplements manuscripts undergo peer review and are processed in the same fashion as regular submissions to the Journal. Some degree of manuscript revision should be expected and regarded as constructive. Journal guidelines for writing book reviews are available online. If you do wish to format the references yourself they should be arranged according to the examples below.Reference styleText: Indicate references by (consecutive) superscript Arabic numerals in the order in which they appear in the text. CME articles should present a synthesis of new information not readily available in textbooks and should reflect the approach and practice style of an expert in the field.To have manuscripts considered for publication in the JAAD as certified CME activities, authors must first complete and submit proposal worksheets and manuscript outlines for approval by the CME Planning Workgroup and Deputy Editor (available at . The discussion should focus on the implications for clinical practice. Place lettering on a white background; avoid reverse type (white lettering on a dark background). Visit the Elsevier Support Center to find the answers you need. Each part of a composite image counts towards the maximum allotment, (e.g., a figure 1A and 1B are considered 2 figures).
